An Elevator Safety Code to cover the construction and operation of building elevators has been prepared by the Pennsylvania State Industrial Board and was effective July 1. By the terms of the code every elevator constructed after July 1 may be built only after two sets of plans and specifications have been submitted to the Department of Labor and Industry, approved, and a permit issued. Passenger elevators must be of electric-drum, electric-traction, electric automatic push button hydraulic-plunger, horizontal-cylinder or vertical-cylinder types. No passenger elevator may be operated by means of belts or chains, friction gearing or clutch mechanism. Elevators must not be built in any thoroughfare where it will be necessary to pass through the shaft. The lifting capacity of passenger lifts must be 80 lb. per sq.ft. and no machine may be operated at more than 600 ft. per sec.

Proposed Extension of Railways in New Brunswick as published by the bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce—The Legislature of New Brunswick has just passed a bill providing for the construction of two extensions of the St. John Valley Ry. This railway is now in operation by the Government for a distance of about 120 mi., between Centerville, a town close to the Maine boundary, and Gagetown, a point about 25 mi. south of Fredericton, the capital, through which the road passes. One extension that is to be completed some time in the early part of 1917 runs from Gagetown about 45 mi. southwest to Westfield, where connection will be made with the Canadian Pacific Ry. into the City of St. John, the metropolis of the Province. [The contract for this portion has just been awarded to the Nova Scotia Contracting Co., of Halifax, Nova Scotia.] A later extension provided for in this bill is a line running north from Centerville to Andover, a distance of about 20 mi., the road to be almost parallel with the eastern boundary of Maine, and about 8 mi. east thereof.
